Lead Generation Company Mojo Global has announced that the company's co-founders Ira Rosen and Cory Michael Sanchez have been featured in Forbes Magazine as one of America's Featured Experts. Being advocates for today's entrepreneurs, the duo were happy to have been recognized for their efforts in B2B Lead Generation and Automotive Sales Lead Generation and in helping Mojo Global clients book over 500,000 appointments into their calendars. The Forbes Magazine mention comes after the company received famed author Sharon Lechter's 5-Star Mojo Review.

"Our clients' loyalty and success stories are what drive us to keep pushing forward," says Cory Michael Sanchez. "We aim to create the ultimate difference with our lead generation software by cracking the Lead Generation code with our Proprietary Lead Generation Software. We are very happy to see that our clients are benefiting from this. To be recognized by Forbes Magazine, however, was more than what we could have hoped for, and we truly are honored and humbled by it."

The review that was provided by Sharon Lechter has been very positively received by everyone at Mojo Global. Every client, to them, is unique, and they treat each new client as if he or she was the first. For the Mojo team, the goal is to make sure that entrepreneurs are provided with the tools they require to make a difference in their businesses and that of their target audience, whether they are a car dealer or an independent author. The Mojo 5-star success stories truly speak for themselves.

"The experience with Mojo has been extraordinary," says Danyal A.K. on Facebook. "My company was a startup (a writing firm with a lot of potential), but did not have the right set of tools to get it pitched to real, prospective clients. Mojo helped me take it an entirely different level, someplace I never thought I'd make it. Renee was an excellent resource throughout, right from her introductory Webinar to the system, she stuck with me throughout, guiding me personally wherever I needed help, and eventually led me to a lot of success."

People are encouraged to visit the Mojo Global website to access the Mojo free lead generation starter kit.
