November 17, 2016 - PRESSADVANTAGE -
AutoInsuranceMonkey offers cheap auto insurance quotes at the convenient website. The free auto insurance quotes tool compares dozens of auto insurance companies and can save hundreds of dollars annually.

Autoinsurancemonkey.com and Johnathan Storinsky are pleased to announce the launch of their free auto insurance quotes tool. In order to learn who has the cheapest auto insurance, customers can simply type in their postcode, then click on any of the insurance companies which are listed. For the best savings, it is recommended that three or four companies be reviewed and the rates compared. In addition to the convenient quotes tool, four tips for saving on auto insurance are offered on the website.

According to a spokesperson for the website, ?You can reduce the cost of your auto insurance by raising the deductible. This will lower the insurance rate significantly, particularly if you are a safe driver. A second way to lower insurance costs is to combine insurance plans. Purchase a home, auto health and life insurance plan from one company.?

He continues, ?Fix your credit. A poor credit history can cost money on insurance premiums. Check the credit report annually to avoid hits to your insurance rate, as well as many other financial transactions. Shop around and compare car insurance rates of as many companies as you can. The more insurance companies you compare, the better chance you have of finding the cheapest auto insurance. We recommend you compare at least four companies. We can help you to find very cheap car insurance no deposit requirements applied.?

The rate for auto insurance is determined by a number of different factors. These can include age, car size and model and location. The driving record and gender also affect the price of the policy, as does the amount of coverage that is desired. When searching for coverage, using the quotes tool will make it easier to compare various plans and coverage levels. Customers should be aware of the ways to save on a policy through elements which can be controlled.
