

Cape Town SEO Announces Long List Of Services

December 12, 2016

December 12, 2016 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Cape Town SEO provides a number of services to local and national clients to increase their business reach. The company, which is based in Cape Town, South Africa, has recently announced that they are providing new services to further add to their long list of SEO services in Cape Town.

Rocco Gagiano, founder of Cape Town SEO says, "We have been providing SEO services for some time and have recently increased our offerings to include a number of social media management, reputation management, and video marketing services."

The Cape Town SEO company offers website design, press release creation and distribution, and mobile application development as well as their newly added social media services.

"Social media marketing is something that every company, online or offline, needs to consider," says CEO Rocco Gagiano. "Whether you set up a Facebook or Instagram page or you keep customers informed of business specials and developments via Twitter, you need that extra reach to keep customers informed and interested."

Gagiano states that the company has been providing social media services to a certain degree for some time but they have added various other social services to provide comprehensive SEO Cape Town for local businesses. He says that the company will work with local companies to develop social media accounts and pages and include article marketing and other services to promote those pages, ultimately drawing in more traffic to company websites or to brick and mortar business locations.

Rocco Gagiano says that companies, no matter what their product or service offerings are, have to include SEO as part of their overall website strategy if they wish to draw in new customers. Cape Town SEO offers a number of SEO services to help businesses increase awareness of their websites and to help turn viewers into customers for companies that have a business site up and running. The company states that those without a website can rely on them to create and design a site that will engage visitors and encourage them to become long-term customers.

More on the complete list of services offered by Cape Town SEO, including new developments that they are planning, can be seen on the company's official website.
