With regards to these new services for SEO Johannesburg companies are finding them to be quite popular.

The CEO Rocco Gagiano from Johannesburg SEO says: "South Africa is going through the online revolution. It seems as if overnight, everybody had acquired a smartphone and wants to be online a lot of the time. While last year, we were behind Nigeria in terms of the percentage of people who access the internet through their mobile phones, we are now top of the continent. This has required a new approach towards SEO and other online services, and we offer exactly that to our clients."

As an SEO agency in Johannesburg, it is recognized that the company has set the standard for other companies in terms of what is expected of online marketing services. They have ensured that they remained up to date with online developments in countries that were traditionally further ahead, including the USA and the United Kingdom, thus being able to predict correctly that the needs in South Africa would change soon, and rapidly. In so doing, they have now been able to set the benchmark that other companies can only try to live up to.

"From the word go, we have been committed to offering advanced skills and knowledge every step of the way," adds the company's representative. "What we wanted to do was make sure that we knew everything that was happening in the world so that, when South Africa finally joined, we wouldn't have to play catch-up. Those years of hard work have really paid off now."

Recently recognized as the best SEO services in Johannesburg Gauteng South Africa, the company continues to draw a lot of attention, not just from small and large businesses aiming to improve their online presence, but also from other, newly started SEO companies that see them as a type of mentor, helping them to improve their own service offerings.
