Lesgo Gaming just announced that they have released a new app for android devices. The app is free from the Google Play Store and assists Minecraft players in better advancing their skills in the game. Features include YouTube video tutorials, blog updates, twitter content, new game news and more. Eventually, the company hopes to release the application through iTunes as well.

The Free Minecraft App for android by LesgoGaming is aimed toward any Minecraft gamer who enjoys playing on their home PC, tablet, laptop, or mobile phone. The company has proven that they feel very passionately about the application and the game itself with their thorough knowledge of Minecraft News and history. They have said the following about the game and how far it has come in its industry:

"Back when Markus "Notch" Persson was designing Minecraft, he probably never imagined the game would garner such widespread attention and critical praise, forever cementing his status as a billionaire gaming god."

The creators of the free app appear to be Minecraft Gamers as well, providing helpful tips and tricks, and interesting facts on the game from the company blog can be found on the LesgoGaming website. The LesgoGaming website also links interested consumers to the company YouTube and Instagram account.

For those who understand the Minecraft allure or who want to know more about the game, this app, or LesgoGaming, the company allows website visitors to subscribe to their blog by e-mail. Similar to the app, this keeps users up to date on the goings on within the LesgoGaming world and offers players updates on techniques and brand news. They say:

"In this world the sun rises and sets as you go about your work, gathering materials and making tools. There is rain and the occasional lightning storm, and animals that you can tame, farm or use for food. Depending on which mode you're playing in you might also need to fight for your survival against hunger, danger and bad guys. Join LesgoGaming and her friends as they explore, mine and build in the Minecraft world."

One of the most prominent benefits of the free Minecraft app is the ability to contact Shania, the creator of LesgoGaming and be directed toward a consistent flow of LesgoGaming's YouTube videos. This feed includes more than ten different featured videos currently, many of which include live game play. App users are invited to comment after viewing each video, and leave feedback for the company, along with rankings and reviews. Some videos provide unique insight into a more personal side of the company's spokesperson, who is the voice and mind behind each update and article.

The new app provides support for new players, and the company has suggested that both new and experienced Minecraft users can find something to benefit them through this mobile offering. It has been promoted as a method to not only learn more about game play, but the game itself and upcoming updates and events that are associated with it. It is being marketed as every Minecraft player's best friend in terms of knowing what's new and understanding the basics of the game.
