Phoenix Firm Launches Restoration Blog Post

November 28, 2016

November 28, 2016 -
Action 1 Restoration offers emergency disaster restoration services for residential and commercial customers 24/7. The company works with insurance companies on the customer's behalf and files the claim directly.

Phoenix AZ: Action 1 Restoration of Arizona and Eduardo Sapp are pleased to announce the launch of their latest blog post about water damage restoration services. The post is titled ?Most Common Causes of Water Damage?. The company is equipped to deal with water emergencies day and night in the Phoenix area. When fast and affordable repair services are needed, the professional team responds quickly to extract water from the structure. The equipment used by the trained professionals is commercial grade and designed to quickly remove water from the structure.

The Action 1 Restoration blog article is a descriptive piece on the major causes of water damage in the home or other structure. These include plumbing supply system failure with burst or broken water pipes; toilet failure risks; and malfunctioning of household appliances. An explanation of typical causes of each of these scenarios is provided, along with information about how the damage can be minimized.

According to a spokesperson for the company, ?Our water damage prevention tips (http://arizona.action1restoration.net/water/) suggest watching for indicators of a plumbing problem, such as a higher monthly water bill, noisy pipes, rust stains, moisture on the floors or walls, or wet soil near the foundation. Thermostats should be set at 60 degrees or more in the cold months, faucets allowed to drip and pipes insulated to reduce the risk of frozen pipes. Homeowners may want to install a leak detection system for added security.?

The cost for cleanup and restoration services can run into thousands of dollars, so a good insurance policy will help to prevent a financial disaster. Home owners and business owners who practice good preventative measures are less likely to suffer from the effects of flooding and other water damage.

The Action 1 firm is available to address residential and commercial clean-up and restoration projects. They respond quickly and provide direct insurance billing. Water extraction, dry out and cleanup services are accomplished in a professional manner. The team also offers disinfection services and mold remediation.
