Bristol Conversions offers quality basement and loft conversions in Bristol and South-West England. The firm has released an article about the process of choosing the right conversion contractors.

Bristol UK: Bristol Conversions and Shane McCauley are pleased to announce the release of their latest informational article on the topic of selecting the right contractors for a loft or basement conversion. The company offers a free consultation and assessment of the available space. Conversions are a good options when the family is growing, or more space is needed within the existing footprint of a residence. The finished project is aesthetically appealing, whether it is the loft or basement which is converted to usable space.

Another interesting fact about loft conversion and basement conversion is the fact it can increase the value of a property by anything between 8%-20%, which can be a substantial increase in a homes' value.

Loft Conversions make use of the under-the-roof area of an existing structure. There are several types of loft styles which can be converted into attractive and functional spaces. These include mansard, dormer and velux styles. The consultation with the specialists is an opportunity to discuss ideas and assessments about which type of structure would be most appropriate for the client's home. The additional space available in the mansard and dormer styles is particularly beneficial, more information available here: <http://bristolconversions.co.uk/bristol-loft-conversions/>

Basement Conversions are another way to add usable space to an existing structure. Often, basements are unattractive and may only be used for storage. There may be problems with moisture or chill, but with expert help, this can be dealt with appropriately. The specialists at Bristol Conversions can provide ideas for transforming the space into a games or media room, additional bedrooms or a family room. The assessment performed by the experts is free of charge and comes with a price estimate, more info available here: <http://bristolconversions.co.uk/basement-conversions-bristol/>.

According to Shane McCauley, "We are expert builders with years of experience doing conversions. We are fully conversant with construction in the local area and are trained, with all the necessary qualifications. Our portfolio shows bespoke experience including jobs requiring care and precision. Our costs are reasonable and we provide price quotes upon request. We do not assess up-front costs for providing the quotation. We provide a detailed plan to the client before beginning the actual construction work.?
