Louisville Plumbing offers specialists who have been providing plumbing services to area residents and businesses for more than three decades. The Jefferson County professionals have been completing a wide range of tasks including maintenance, installation and repair of plumbing systems.

Louisville KY: Louisville Plumbing and Kenny Payne are pleased to announce that they have reached a milestone of 36 years in operation, providing plumbing services to Louisville and Jefferson County residents and businesses. Plumbing services of various types are always in demand, and the friendly and courteous professionals at LP offer installation, maintenance and repair of plumbing systems in the area. Both commercial and residential customers are able to receive the same high level of service, irrespective of whether the job is large or small.

According to a company spokesperson, "Since 1980, we have been providing our customers across Jefferson County with prompt, professional, installation, maintenance and repair services by highly skilled professionals. We are dedicated to serving all of your plumbing needs in an honest and ethical manner. Our business is one of Kentucky's only family owned and operated plumbing, heating, drain cleaning, cooling and electrical repair firms.?

The pro plumbing team is able to resolve issues and ensure that customers are safe in their homes. Top notch services is the reason for Louisville Plumbing's more than sixty percent repeat customer ratio. An email photo, along with a short description of the service technician's bio is sent to customers who have called for a tech.

The company offers an extended hours service schedule seven days weekly, so most customers are spare the inconvenience and cost of emergency calls and overtime rates. Rapid response rates are greater than 96 percent. At present, the loyal customer base of residential customers is more than 150,000.

The trucks are always clean and fully stocked. They are a symbol of the professionalism which customers expect. Technicians are able to complete most repairs from the supplies and tools carried in the trucks. The result is a more efficient response to customers' needs and a reduced cost per service call.
