Longview TX roofing firm owned by John and James Gordy offers the knowledge and experience accrued over fifty years of roofing business operation. The company provides a wide range of roofing for residential, commercial and industrial customers.

Longview TX: Gordy Roofing Longview TX and owners John and James Gordy are pleased to announce that they are celebrating fifty years of ownership. The roofing Longview TX company has been bringing roofing expertise to customers in the area for more than half a century. Residential services include new installation, replacements, repairs, siding and gutters. Commercial solutions are sized for large or small businesses, using EPDM, TPO, and Modified Bitumenfied Bitumen products. The company also handles metal roofing for commercial and residential applications.

A spokesperson for the roofing firm explained, "We have established our reputation for first-rate work based on experience and professionalism. Our product line includes roofing materials from the top manufacturers in the industry. We promise each job will be completed with quality products and expert installation. Our clients expect and receive dependability, transparency, Texas State compliance, and professionalism.?

New roofing for both residential and commercial projects is installed. Home and business owners can select roofing from a wide assortment of cutting-edge roofing materials to restore the roof and enhance the aesthetic appeal of their property. A new roof will help to provide insulation of the interior and protect from water leaks.

It is suggested that roofs should be inspected periodically for evidence of damage and dirt. Additional inspections should occur in the aftermath of a storm. Minor repairs to the roof due to normal wear and tear can help to extend the life of the roof and provide a better annualized cost.

A comprehensive inspection affects every component of the roof, including decking, ventilation, the current roofing system, valleys and the gutter system. A detailed and accurate report is submitted to the home or business owner with suggestions about the steps which should be taken to restore the roof before more work is required. Only needed tasks are recommended. There is no attempt to pressure the customer to purchase items or services which are unnecessary.
