London-based Pulse9 Ltd offers a range of features in its new Joomla host plan. The modules include instant setup, website security, and free installation, as well as free SSL certification.

London UK: Pulse9 Ltd and David Ellis is pleased to announce the launch of its new Joomla hosting service. All of the web hosting plans come with a range of modules and associated services. The company offers great value-for-money plans. There are three levels of plans: the Economy Plan, Deluxe Plan and Ultimate Plan. Prices are affordable with a menu of great features and high-quality hosting. The set-up and installation of the service is fast and convenient.

The level of quality offered by the Joomla host firm includes a menu of features, beginning with website security. The customer's website is protected by the dedicated firewall, CloudLinux, and ModSecurity features. The security protects against the risk of hackers harming the sensitive data on the customer's website. The hosting plans are each optimized for super fast web hosting using Litespeed caching and solid state drives.

Installation of the hosting plans is free of charge and the installation process is easy. Access to the content management system occurs with a single click. The hosting account comes with a current cPanel version, which facilitates tasks such as hosting account management and setting up email addresses. The hosting plan also includes the latest versions of MySQL and PHP, which are secure and stable. Various versions of PHP are available, including PHP7, 5.3, 5.4, 5.5, and 5.6. A free SSL certificate comes with each of the plans.

The included Cloud hosting service doesn't rely on hardware to be operational. In fact, the plan is guaranteed at 99.99 percent up-time. The websites of clients are not down due to failure of the equipment. Email spam protection is available on each of the hosting accounts. The hosting plans also include additional SEO tools which make the customers' websites more SEO-friendly as part of the service.
