

Lightening Deal Date Announced For TSA Approved Travel Bottles

December 12, 2016

December 12, 2016 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Zombiedisasterkits.com in Vancouver, Washington, has recently announced that their popular TSA approved travel bottles will be part of the holiday Lightening Deals offered on the Amazon marketplace. Amazon's Lightening Deals allow consumers to purchase certain products at a much discounted rate over their normal pricing. Jillian Gregg from Zombie Disaster Kits states that the Lightening Deal for the bottles is scheduled for December 13, 2016 at 11:55 a.m. PST.

"Our TSA bottles are very popular," says Gregg. "Our customers appreciate their benefits and as a reward for their loyalty, we wanted to offer the bottles on Amazon's deal days."

The TSA friendly three ounce silicone suction bottles are designed for storing liquids and gels when traveling. Gregg states that many customers use them when camping or picnicking to avoid bringing full bottles of certain products. The smaller bottles take up less space and each bottle features an inner valve that helps to keep contents from leaking out, even during cabin pressure changes when flying.

"They're great for any number of liquids and gels," says Gregg. "And you have no worries of getting through airport security and checkpoints because they are specifically designed to be TSA approved."

Gregg states that the bottles allow customers to carry the correct amount of liquids, and they can also be used by moms who need to bring baby food aboard airplanes or on picnics. The bottles are completely BPA-free and are constructed of food grade silicone in a squeeze bottle that includes a safety cap.

ZombieDisasterKits states that they are pleased to be offering the bottles during Amazon's Lightning Deals and state that they make excellent holiday gifts for mothers or anyone who tends to travel regularly. Gregg states that those interested should be sure to take time on December 13 to grab the Lightning Deal, and says that other products by the company are also part of the upcoming holiday sales period on the Amazon marketplace.

Those interested in learning more about the TSA approved travel bottles can do so on the company's official website or through their Amazon seller's page.
