Morph Pillow, an Orem, UT company specializing in travel pillows and accessories has published a timely article on the top 10 travel hacks that covers topics from apps one can download to find local hot spots to how to keep luggage smelling fresh.

The article, which was published on their blog at morphpillow.com and lays out information travelers can use to make traveling easier, more efficient and more enjoyable. The luggage tips include putting a fabric softener in luggage so that clothes smell fresh and remain static-free.

Morph Pillow founder, Brian Parker, says that his company is committed to providing valuable information to travelers but all the while keeping tips light and manageable, knowing that there are many levels of experience with travelers and many reasons people take to the open road.

One of the tips for less experienced travelers is a simple hack that involves no money and no extra time. They point out that when in doubt on where to go in an airport (for example: where the taxi stand is, or the baggage claim area) the best bet is to follow travelers in business suits. Business travelers are the most experienced travelers and politely following them when exiting a plane will usually get one to the street level and baggage claim the quickest.

They are quick to tout others who help make travel better and in their current publication they recommend an app called "Spotted by Locals." This app shares tips from locals about where to eat and stay in various cities.

Morph Pillows flagship product is their revolutionary travel pillow. Designed like no other, the round and compact travel pillow quickly became a best selling item on Amazon shortly after its release. Brian Parker said, "We want to make the travel experience the best possible experience for travelers. So not only will we continue to provide helpful hints and hacks throughout the next year, we will also be introducing new comfort items for travelers and commuters.

The Morph Pillow travel pillow can be found exclusively at Amazon.com. To read more about the company and get more travel tips and hacks, visit their website at morphpillow.com.
