Medicare For Her, which is based in Cornelius, North Carolina, has recently released a new episode of their online show, which explains Medicare Advantage plans in detail and what people need to know about them before they choose a specific plan. The company provides YouTube videos regularly that focus on Medicare for women and what they should know about the insurance to ensure that they get the best coverage. In this particular episode, which can be accessed on YouTube at <https://youtu.be/OgmGoiWuVB8>, Tripp Jordan explains PPO and HMO plans, guiding consumers on how to choose the best plan for their coverage needs.

"People have to understand Medicare Advantage before they know that it's working for them," Jordan says. "These episodes are designed to answer crucial questions about the plans and what you should know going in so that you don't end up with a ton of medical bills that you thought your insurance was going to cover, only they didn't."

In the episode, which can also be seen at <http://www.medicareforher.com/medicare-advantage/>, Jordan says that with a Medicare supplement, consumers have a flat premium, so when they leave the hospital or doctor's office, the cost is already covered. He states that many women contact him telling him how glad they were that they no longer have a co-pay, which he says can be a deal breaker when it comes to doctors, specialists and other medical care. He states that his aim is to help women to better understand their need for a Medicare supplement and to help them choose the right plan.

"Women need to realize that Medicare isn't paying for everything," Jordan states. "You need additional coverage to avoid being hit with a bill every time you visit the doctor. These costs can get outrageously expensive, particularly if you have a medical issue that sends you to the doctor regularly."

Jordan states that while Medicare Advantage plans do in fact cover some of the costs that original Medicare does not, a Medicare Supplement is what truly gives women the peace of mind of knowing that your medical needs will be completely taken care of without eating into your life savings. He lists in a chart format the exact differences between the two and states that it is important to learn more about which plans are available to you in your particular area, which is the topic of his latest episode.
