Medicare For Her is a Charlotte, NC company that aims to help women, and retired women in particular, navigate the complex world of Medicare, plans, and supplements. One way they achieve this is by releasing regular episodes on their show in which they answer questions from people who have contacted them. Their latest episode is titled "NC SHIP Raleigh Senior Health Insurance Information Program Explained" and is available through <https://youtu.be/e6qg3HNmT50>. In the video, they walk people through a full explanation of this specific program.

"NC SHIP is not a carrier, it is really a non biased organization that is a tremendous resource for Medicare information," says Tripp Jordan from Medicare for Her. "They are just a great unbiased resource, so they're not trying to push you into a product which is great. It is also state run."

To ensure that everybody has the opportunity to understand the information provided, Medicare For Her releases their episodes not just on YouTube, but also on their own website. The new video can be found at <http://www.medicareforher.com/nc-shipp/>. Furthermore, they include transcripts for each episode so that those with poor internet connections, or those with hearing problems, can also have access to the information.

Specific to NC SHIIP, Medicare For Her wants people to know that it is basically a team of counselors who provide people with important information, rather than having someone try to sell them something. "They let you make your own decision on what plan is going to be best suited for your lifestyle and your situation and your budget. Again they're not pigeon-holing you like some of the agencies do. NC SHIIP is not a carrier or an agency, it is more of a community or an organization to give you great advice. We basically offer the same service, but specific to Medicare and we do this through our videos and episodes."

Medicare For Her also encourages people to like their Facebook page on <https://www.facebook.com/medicareforher>. This will give people the opportunity to always know when a new episode is released. Additionally, they can use the Facebook page to ask further questions about Medicare.
