Green Theory Distributors offers a line of products which are focused on encouraging green growing plants and products to support them. The planters are aesthetically pleasing as well as functional.

Vancouver BC: Green Theory Distributors is pleased to announce the launch of its online catalog featuring wholesale outdoor planters that allow apartment and condo dwellers to enjoy the beauty and health benefits of live plants without the tiresome chores of weeding and watering daily. The company distributes and sources products which enhance the quality of life, the appearance of the spaces in which people reside and protect the earth. The planters which are suitable for planting make every patio and balcony a place where gardening can occur on a small scale.

An alternative to traditional planters is Planters Perfect. The product is sleek and attractive, the company says. Green Theory's EZ Fill-Ter bags are then added to the planters. The third step is to use the Ollie Plant Sipper for reducing the amount of water required by up to 80 percent.

The selection of custom planters is aesthetically pleasing, as well as suitable for containing plants of the size and type for the amount of patio or balcony space which is available to the customer. GTD planters range in size and style and are carefully crafted to the highest quality standards. They combine attention to technical detail as well as a beautiful design aesthetic. The planters are ideal for either residential or commercial projects and can be placed indoors or outdoors.

Included in the website is a list of suggestions to consider before purchasing cube planters or other styles. The customer should ensure that the size of the planter matches the needs of the plants to have adequate root systems. Good drainage holes are necessary to allow the roots to avoid becoming waterlogged. The roots require oxygen to be healthy. The weight of the planter will be a factor if it is to be placed on a deck or balcony. If it is to be moved around, the weight of the soil, plants and planter combined must be considered. The investment in a quality planter can be costly, so durability is important.
