SVG Digital offers a comprehensive suite of online solutions including search engine optimization, social media management and mobile app development, among others. SEO and mobile apps are essential in today's marketing world.

Florence SC: SVG Digital and Shane Gebhards are pleased to announce that the web design Florence SC firm has expanded their marketing services to provide comprehensive integrated services which include mobile app development, video production and marketing, web design, email marketing, online reputation management, pay per click, social media management and search engine optimization. Both mobile apps and a search engine optimized website are critical elements for sales conversions.

Social media management has a growing capacity to benefit businesses that utilize the powerful features in order to drive revenues and acquire leads. More sales are possible by using social media platforms such as Facebook, Twitter and Instagram. A custom website design is a powerful tool to help businesses of all sizes expand their market presence. Irrespective of the product or service offered on the World Wide Web, an online store front for the customer's business is a necessary and effective component of the marketing component.

According to Shane Gebhards, "We make sure that all of your social media accounts are working in unison with your website. The right website will permit your business to be found online more easily than those of your competitors businesses. SVG is a custom digital marketing service which can bring more business than ever. We have the knowledge and experience to bring your business to the first page of Google search results. Most online users never get beyond the first page."

He continues, "We recognize that email marketing is still an effective way to reach potential customers. At the same time, social media management is growing by leaps and bounds. Nearly half of customers look at social media outlets before making a purchase. We ensure that your business social media pages portray the messages you want."

SVG Digital also provides digital services of Pay per Click, online reputation management, web design, mobile app development, graphic and logo design and video production and marketing. The combination of these services becomes a powerful marketing campaign design that is customized for the specific business.
