Accent.ca, a Vancouver BC car leasing company, recently announced the impact of car leasing on all car-seeking residents. They are one of the most sought after companies for car leasing in Surrey.

"One of the reasons why we're so popular is that we offer a wide range of very good brand new cars and our secondhand cars are new models too," reveals Don Taylor of Accent.ca. "We also offer our own money for financing to expedite matters, and we don't have a problem leasing and financing to people with no credit, including students and new immigrants."

The leasing procedure with Vancouver car leasing company, Accent.ca, is very simple. "At Accent.ca, our experts provide valuable advice so that the customer can choose the most suitable vehicle," says Taylor, "once a choice is made, they start the lease off without a retail markup. The customer then chooses a payment term ranging from 24 to 60 months. The future fair market value of the vehicle, which is also known as the residual, is determined for the end of the payment term. The difference between the value of the cost of the car and the value of the residual determines the amount to be paid for the duration of the payment term."

The choices for new cars are vast, ranging from sport cars and compacts to passenger vans and pickup trucks. Yet even those who opt for pre-owned cars can also choose from more than 800 vehicles in the Accent.ca inventory, all of which are new models from 2012 and onwards, adds Taylor, most of the secondhand vehicles have the balance of their manufacturer's warranty. And all have been carefully inspected so that they are safe and reliable. At the end of the lease, the customer also has several choices regarding what happens next. They may pay the value of the residual, and that means they can earn the vehicle outright. They can also sign a lease extension so that they get financing for the residual and after this they will also own the vehicle.

They may also instead choose to return the vehicle to Richmond car leaser, Accent.ca, and the car leasing company can sell it to others on behalf of the customer. Any equity on the deal goes to the customer. Or they can trade in their equity on a newer car model, which greatly reduces the cost of the new vehicle they get.

Here at Accent.ca, we're connected to a network of manufacturers and sellers, and we have access to auctions North America, adds Don Taylor. If we don't have the car a customer wants, we can get it very quickly. For further information, contact Accent.ca.
