Jewelry designer Jes MaHarry offers a coloring book to spotlight her jewelry pieces. The "Free Spirit" coloring book carries out the themes of artistic freedom and unique organic quality.

Jes MaHarry is pleased to announce the release of her new "Free Spirit" coloring book. The book is tied to the artisan jewelry designer's view of life. The book is designed to free the mind, calm the spirit and ignite the imagination. Finding perfection in what is imperfect is the designer's signature approach. Her free-form charms and innovative juxtaposition of raw and refined materials suggest the beauty of life is found in acceptance of what is.

Speaking in a recent interview, Jes explained, "I have a strong desire to live each moment as fully and freely as possible. My creations are fueled by empathetic relationships with animals, my deep love of nature and compassion for all living things. My lifestyle brings knowledge to my art and original mixed media jewelry that has reached a world wide market."

For more than twenty years, the philosophy of creation has been attracting jewelry collectors throughout the world. The pieces which the artist has produced and offered on the market, feature bold gemstone fusions, authentic ancient trade beads and distinctive charms which employ artfully carved symbols of life, love and words of inspiration. The artist has a gift for the art forms which she employs.

From her youngest days, MaHarry has demonstrated a gift for the organic art form. She has created meaningful adornments in her college years and in the two decades following. The brand has been featured in the Sundance Catalog of Robert Redford since 2000. Her brand is unparalleled in its distinctive style, quality workmanship and attention to detail.

The coloring book employs many of the same themes that are reflected in her jewelry pieces. The book combines animals, plants and fantasy images to become something beyond any of the categories. Buyers can customize the images to suit their own preferences and styles.
