ProteinFactory.com offers details about top protein products on the market and a list of companies that provide protein powder. The company provides an infographic on the correct procedures for producing protein powder.

Lakewood NJ: Proteinfactory and site owner, Alex Rogers, are pleased to announce the release of their list of the top protein powders in the market place. The content of the informative article describes the steps which should occur in creating top quality protein powder. The company backs up its statement of "highest quality" not by marketing hype, but by proof, using third party lab analysis. The protein powders are tested by independent labs. The firm has identified its top five proteins which are listed in the posted article.

Identifying the best protein on the market is a business philosophy that has resulted in the sale of hundreds of thousands of pounds of protein powder since the launch of the company in 1998. The products are fully compliant with the FDA Code of Federal Regulations III.

According to Alex Rogers, "For other companies which sell protein powder, the claim to be the best in the business is based on the taste of the product. We believe that taste is only a demonstration of how skilled the manufacturer is in adding flavorings to the powder. The real test of quality begins with the manufacturer of the protein powder. My top list of companies which make the powder includes Davigo Foods, Mullins Whey, Glanbia Nutritionals, Milk Specialties, Teras Whey, and Lake o Lakes.

The infographic which details the way protein powder should be manufactured begins with ordering the powder from a top manufacturer and shipping it to the contract packager. Steps 3 through 9 include the tests, blending and packaging, testing for microbial contaminants, testing for nutrient micro-contaminants, paperwork review, company checklist, review test data, shipment to the brand company, and released into commerce.

The best protein powders, according to Alex Rogers meet the high standards set. Rogers recommends Peptopro, Bio Serum, Native Whey Isolate, Advanced BCAA, and Heliogen Casein as the best examples of high standards.
