Minneapolis IT Services Company Announces Website Launch

January 04, 2017

Golden Valley, Minnesota - January 04, 2017 -
PromoTech Marketing, an online marketing company based in Minneapolis, Minnesota, has announced the launch of a new lead generation website. The new website provides IT services to businesses in Minneapolis and the surrounding Twin Cities Metro areas.

"We're pleased to have our new lead gen website up and running," says company spokesperson Jeff Mork. "We believe that this allows us to more easily provide people with information about managed it services and how this site does it, so that they can make an informed decision about utilizing these services."

PromoTech Marketing - Minneapolis SEO Services developed the new website to include IT support and services as well as network cabling and other solutions. The company states that the new site can assist with all aspects of managing a computer network and connect businesses with trusted partners to help manage their IT outsourcing.

The new website provides further information about managed IT support and the long list of services that they offer for businesses around the Minneapolis area. Mork states that interested businesses can browse through the site to find the specific service that they need.

"If you don't find what you need, just let us know," Mork states. "We aim to offer all of the services you require to keep your business computer network running smoothly, so if you don't see a specific service listed, give us a call. We may be able to provide the solution you need."

Mork states that they also offer remote and onsite monitoring and support for customers. The team works to provide a green footprint by offering remote monitoring support which can take care of many of the daily tasks businesses need. He says that remote support can be worked on after business hours which provides much less downtime for companies, and after hours remote support is provided to business as well.

The company states that they offer a wide range of solutions for business IT issues and that their staff possesses years of combined experience in the field to offer customers a positive overall experience. Those interested in learning more about IT network support can go to the new website for a complete list of their offered services at https://manageditservicesminneapolis.com/.
