New Delhi-based Indian classified website offers information about their anniversary. The website is considered the best resource for searching out needs online.

New Delhi India: Pluslogin is pleased to announce that it has celebrated an anniversary since the launch of its helpful website directed at Indian readers looking for a full range of products and services. The categories include real estate and businesses for sale, auto parts and vehicles of various types, and accessories in fashion and equipment. The users can buy, sell or advertise anything on the website. There are dozens of categories and sub-categories included on the user-friendly website.

The website features free Indian classifieds with no need to register before adding listings. Clicking on the 'Add Listing?' allows for completing the submission in just a couple minutes. The ad will be live within two hours following approval of the content. The sale of items include items such as bicycles, automobiles and other vehicles. If parts are needed for any of the categories, there are listings for the items.

A spokesperson for the website described the categories and website features in a recent interview, 'If you are looking for information about how to buy a home-based business, or another type of business, there are offers among the listings. Those who want to invest in such a venture, or share in a partnership with other investors can find help among the listings. There are listings for those who have items to barter or trade.?

Individuals who are looking for work can find job listings on the site. A range of jobs including accounting, administration, agriculture, call centers and consulting jobs are listed. There are locations where entertainment can be found, from clubs to restaurants to the latest movie locations. Video games and music selections are part of the listings. Additional categories include real estate, sale opportunities and a wide range of services. The website is easy to use and comprehensive in the range of products and services.
