Business Empowered Announces February Luncheons For Emerald Coast

January 12, 2017

January 12, 2017 -
Destin, Florida based Business Empowered has announced their luncheon schedule for February 2017. This is a community of God-loving business leaders that through Kingdom principles bring growth and transformation to their workplace.

Luncheons in February include speakers such as Steve Ruckel, a real estate entrepreneur, banker, counselor, and pastor. The luncheon on February 8 will be held in South Walton. A luncheon is also set for February 9 to be held in Fort Walton Beach, and another on February 10 to be held in Destin. Those interested in RSVPing or who would like more information about the luncheons can contact the company on their official website at www.businessempowered.net.

"These luncheons are an excellent opportunity to learn from experts," says a spokesperson from Be Empowered. "Steve Ruckel is filled with wisdom and has been proven to be a wonderful speaker at various events."

Business Empowered offers luncheons on a regular basis with speakers who are established ministers and business leaders. The luncheons are designed to offer insights to business owners and give them empowerment with regards to reaching the success that they really want. Additional events are scheduled throughout the year, and those interested in upcoming events can learn more about them on the company's website.

"Business Empowered helps business owners and leaders to come out of their shells and really reach for the stars," says the spokesperson. "From luncheons to workshops, they offer something that members are sure to find useful. They also provide opportunities for networking with like-minded business owners that you don't get from every organization."

Business Empowered is an organization that provides workshops to its members that focus on building business skills and general business concerns such as conflict resolution in the workplace, ownership principals, partnerships, and much more. The luncheons set in February will focus on key speaker Steve Ruckel, who will share his insights on ministry and business leadership. The spokesperson says that this is an event that business leaders in the area will want to be sure to attend.

Interested business owners and entrepreneurs can learn more about the organization and membership opportunities on their website.
