January 10, 2017 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Ottawa Carpet Cleaning 360 offers professional commercial and residential carpet cleaning. The cleaning method is a low moisture system called Soil Extraction Transfer Technology (SETT).

Ottawa ONT: Ottawa Carpet Cleaning and Matthew Macnab are pleased to announce the implementation of their low moisture cleaning system. The unique cleaning method requires minimal drying time because little moisture is used to extract the soil. The subject method is known as SETT or Soil Extraction Transfer Technology. Other methods tend to use much more water to accomplish the cleaning process. The SETT method is environmentally friendly that coats and suspends the dirt particles.

According to a spokesperson for the company, "In both our carpet cleaning division and upholstery cleaning in Ottawa, we use the latest in low moisture encapsulation technology. By using this advanced cleaning method we are able to clean the dirtiest of carpets and upholstery. The encapsulation cleaning system uses an environmentally friendly solution that coats and suspends the dirt particles thus carpets they will stay cleaner longer."

The firm utilizes the state-of-the-art CarpetMaxx and the Terminator cleaning system. They are low moisture cleaning methods that use a rotary scrubbing action to remove the heaviest of the ground in soils. The methods are very effective on highly challenged carpets. They are a truly green carpet cleaning solution for Ottawa area residents and businesses.

CC360 doesn't up-sell a range of products such as pre-sprays, disinfectants and deodorizers. Everything needed in the cleaning process is included in the price quote. The company focuses on cleaning carpets and upholstery, rather than the sale of products. The result is years of additional life for carpet or upholstery.

The services offered by the Ottawa firm include carpet cleaning, furniture cleaning and upholstery cleaning. The specialists also take care of removing pet odours and stains. Restoration of interiors caused by water damage is yet another service. Regular cleaning helps to extend the life of carpet and upholstery. The proven methods and equipment are known for their excellent results.
