Charlton & Glover of Roswell Georgia offers professional and compassionate divorce and family law attorneys. The professionals help to provide decisive resolutions to legal challenges.

Roswell GA: CHARLTON & GLOVER, P.C., Martin Charlton and Patricia S. Glover are pleased to announce that the spring of 2017 will mark the 25th anniversary of their legal practice. The attorneys are known for professionalism and compassion toward clients in need of divorce and family law representation. Solutions for legal challenges is the focus of the legal team in Roswell and North Fulton. Family Law cases can seem overwhelming. Their experienced attorneys can guide clients through the steps which must be taken and provide the support necessary to meet challenges with confidence.

The divorce attorney Alpharetta Georgia begins with responding to questions about the legal process. Questions such as the length of the process, the possible terms of a settlement and the effects on children in the case of custody questions. The initial consultation is provided at no cost. The attorney will analyze the current family situation and whether the divorce is contested or uncontested.

According to the spokesperson for the practice, "Divorce involves many issues which must be addressed during the course of the proceedings. Some include high assets, alimony and spousal support, property division, disposition of retirement accounts, child custody, visitation and child support. The attorney can also assist with post-divorce modifications and enforcement actions. We ensure that our clients are represented throughout the entire proceedings."

The knowledge and experience brought to bear in working with each client provides the assurance that the issues in each case will be resolved and incorporated in the final divorce decree and settlement. Simple uncontested divorces can be completed relatively easily. The more complicated the issues in a marriage dissolution, the more important it is to retain the services of an attorney. Each step of the process will be fully explained to the client as open and honest communication remains a top priority.
