January 17, 2017 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

CFS Electrics offers professional electrician services to Sydney residents and businesses. The electrical services include a range of activities including kitchen renovation rewiring, electrical switch box upgrades and much more.

Stanmore NSW: CFS Electrics and Stuart Stephens are pleased to announce that their service area covers Sydney and the Inner West for many years. Both residents and businesses are covered by the professional technicians from CFS. The many electrical services not only cover a geographical area but a range of electrical services. Some of the projects which are handled with expertise include house rewiring, switch box upgrades, house rewiring and a multitude of other services.

In a recent interview, Stuart Stephens explained, "We have numerous contacts in the building trades to assist with home renovations, or building maintenance so that we can help you with various electrician Inner West projects. The electrical work typically is just a part of the overall needs of a project. We are able to advise customers where we can about contractors that will provide the same high level of service that we promise."

He continues, "As Sydney's Inner West electrician, we have been serving the area for years. We promise honest and reliable work and we are always polite. The cost of each electrical project will vary according to the job, but we always provide a quote that is based on quality work and a fair price. Our services are 24-hour at reasonable prices. We respond to commercial business clients, strata companies, real estate and domestic clients."

All work for Sydney clients comes with a 100 percent satisfaction guarantee. Hundreds of customers in the area have received the benefits of the expert trained and experienced technicians. In addition to the standard house and business wiring tasks, the company provides information about solar batteries-Tesla inventory models.

Because the professionals can respond quickly to customer emergency needs, the business customers will have less down time. The technicians can arrive promptly and identify the problems so that they can be corrected and the commercial operations restored to full efficiency.
