

The National Veterans Opportunity Coalition Appoints a New CEO

January 23, 2017

January 23, 2017 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

The National Veterans Opportunity Coalition warmly welcomes Rosval (Ros) A. Patterson, as new Chief Executive Officer. A seasoned executive, leader and strategist, Ros served honorably and retired from the United States Army after 21 years of service.

Ros is co-owner of a Veteran owned service disabled business, Carpe Diem Ventures, a construction company fully staffed by veterans that competes for government contracts by entering into joint ventures with general contractors. An entrepreneur and businessman, he also successfully runs his own mobile marketing and business consulting companies.

Ros has also served the Community on several boards. They include; the former Grand Canyon Minority Supplier Development Council (GCMSDC) and Maricopa County Work Force. At GCMSDC, in addition to serving as the organization's Corporate Legal Counsel, he also chaired the Minority Business Enterprise Input Committee.

Ben Fatola, VP of TNVOC stated, "We are extremely excited to have Ros on board. He is a proven business opportunity expert. His many experiences have prepared him to manage exploitable circumstances and decrease risk to those who are in need of an opportunity. Ros creates opportunities and is accessible as he faces the world each day with a smile a handshake and a good hug (if needed). As a result of his many successes, TNVOC is sure to thrive under his leadership."

At TNVOC, Ros is committed to providing business opportunities to Veteran Owned Businesses (VOB)s by teaming them with VOBs and other Partner Members. His wish is simple: increase opportunities for VOBs through the development of relationships, using his knowledge and experience to deliver measurable, desirable business opportunities and relationships in a seamless and creative manner. In other words allow TNVOC to provide excellent staff support on behalf of VOBs and Partner Members that helps but does not get in the way.

Those who own a VOB or are a veteran looking to start a business, and would like more business opportunities, contact Ros at rospatterson@tnvoc.com or call him at (480) 666-9090 to discuss one's VOB, growing revenue and business teaming.
