HARApad Armband offers only exercise solution in the market.

Grand Rapids, MI: HARApad, LLC, a family-run business dedicated to helping people use their electronic devices safely, announces their newest electromagnetic radiation and EMF protection device, the HARApad Armband.

The HARApad Armband allows a radiation-free and hands-free cell phone experience. The only exercise solution on the market, the HARApad Armband protects from ELF electromagnetic radiation, WIFI radiation, Bluetooth radiation, and RF cell phone radiation.

Combining HARApad's cell phone radiation shielding with a neoprene armband and optional low-emission headset, the HARApad Armband provides the only hands-free option that puts a physical shield between the cell phone and body. This allows customers to safely use their phone while exercising, or any time they want radiation-free cell phone use.

"We are excited to offer the only EMF protection device on the market that offers protection while exercising," said Mark Kramer, HARApad CEO.

"Protection from EMF while exercising promotes a healthy lifestyle on multiple levels," he added.

The HARApad Armband is the latest addition to the HARApad family of products, including EMF protection for laptops, iPads, tablets, and cell phones.

It is proven that all mobile and electronic devices emit electromagnetic radiation. This EMF radiation has been linked to diseases like leukemia, cancer, Alzheimer's disease, infertility, and electromagnetic sensitivity.

The HARApad family of EMF protection products provides the ultimate safety while using today's modern mobile technology.
