

Launch of a New Website Promoting Discounted Deals

January 24, 2017

January 24, 2017 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

GetYourCouponCodes.com, a startup website that offers coupons from various e-commerce websites, has said that the public is failing to utilize the multiple benefits that come with coupons as they should.

The announcement comes barely a month after several New York based websites joined forces to educate the public on how to get genuine coupons. According to Dennis Scheffler, the founder of getyoucoupons.com, "Retailers and hotels from all around the country offer numerous coupons on multiple products but most of the coupons end up getting wasted." Kim however said that with a little bit of awareness, everyone would be happy to search and use coupons as much as they could.

"In recent months we have realized that people don't seem to take advantage of coupons as they should. I think it is probably because they don't see their benefits. At getyourcoupons.com we wish to change that notion however. We hope to educate people on the different products whose coupons are most valuable and will have exclusive section to help more people shop for less," Kim said.

While most people ignore them, coupons help lower a product's price to a great extent. In some cases, a coupon could help a customer shop for a product for a quarter its original price. Most of the biggest online retailers like Amazon, Overstock, boohoo etc. offer coupons based on products or site wide offer.

GetYourCouponCodes.com has also partnered with a few of the major online retailers to help boost the number of coupons people can find on their website. According to the website co-founder, Dennis Scheffler, his website has Amazon as the biggest online retailer they have partnered with. However, Dennis also says that customers could still find hundreds of coupons for numerous products from other retailers.

"Amazon is our biggest partners, and the main source of the coupons you can find at GetYourCouponCodes.com. In fact, the Amazon coupons you can find on our sites are sometimes so many that some of them expire before people have picked them. That's not what we hope for going forward however. We want to see people claiming these coupons and getting great deals with them," Scheffler said.

Dennis however says that there are certain days and events when people crave for coupons the most. According to his statistics; people grab coupons for Black Friday and Christmas way faster than for any other event. He further says that other public holidays like Independence days do see customer flock his website for coupons, although not as much as they do during Christmas. Dennis, like other websites creating awareness about coupons for typical products say that he would like to see people search for coupons on every available product.

###

For more information about GetYourCouponCodes, contact the company here: GetYourCouponCodesDennisSchefflersupport@getyourcouponcodes.com

GetYourCouponCodes

I am Dennis Scheffler and I have developed GetYourCouponCodes.com with an objective to help people to save money at different online-stores.

Website: <https://www.getyourcouponcodes.com/store/amazon>

Email: support@getyourcouponcodes.com

Powered by PressAdvantage.com