January 25, 2017 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Bradenton, Florida ? PCI Communications, a family-owned and operated local publisher of community directories enters 2017 with the Manatee Chamber of Commerce?s 37th Annual Manatee Small Business Award in the $250,000 to $1 million-dollar category; the Company was selected from a pool of over one hundred nominees.

The Chamber serves as a hub and valuable resource for the service industry and retail trade businesses that support the region?s booming tourism and retirement industries. This annual program recognizes small businesses for "quality and excellence" as exemplified by growth, productivity, customer service, job creation and overall contribution to the community.

Nominee companies are chosen based on the contributions made to the community that directly impact job growth, customer service, business expansion and overall support of Manatee County.

Says co-owner, Valerie Longo, ?We are honored to be recognized for our service to the communities in which we serve; this recognition has reinforced our goal to continue to improve our standard of excellence in the New Year.?

PCI prints and distributes high quality directories to more than 200 communities throughout Florida. The Company continues to play a significant role to successfully forge an environment of community throughout the State, and has been doing so for the past four decades. The publications offer resident's accessibility to community news and places advertisers at the forefront of potential and existing customers.

Valerie commented, "We believe that our advertisers and readers are our future; our goal is to serve each and every one with quality, honesty, and integrity. Our family has built this company on a foundation of quality relationships with our communities and advertisers, and we are committed to provide service that sets us apart from large media giants."
