New York NY: 247 Carpet is pleased to announce that the professionals at the company have the knowledge, man power and experience to correctly repair any damaged or worn area rugs. Damaged rugs not only look bad, but they can increase the risk of trip and fall accidents. Worn areas in an otherwise good quality rug hold dirt and debris. The specialists at 247 Carpet know how to restore the worn or damaged areas of the rug so that the life is extended and the appearance is restored.

Rug repair and rug cleaning Manhattan customers need can include a number of options. Some of the most common repairs include patching holes, mending tears and slits, reweaving ripped rugs, fixing damaged sides and corners, handling water damage, restoring rug colors and removing pet stains and odor. High quality area rugs represent a significant investment and proper care and maintenance of the floor coverings help to keep the rugs looking good through their lifetime.

According to a spokesperson for the company, "Sewing machines don't have the right attachments and parts to repair area rugs properly. Hand-sewing is also inadequate to do the repairs needed to restore the rug to full potential. Even if the equipment was adequate to do the repair work, most people do not have the skills, tools or experience to do the necessary repair work."

The repair services are completed using state-of-the-art tools and the skills of expert technicians. The services which they offer are not limited to repairing area rugs, but also include a wide range of organic cleaning services and restoration. The specific tasks which are implemented to repair the rugs include inspection of the type of damage, delivery to the company facility and repair of the damaged areas. There are additional restoration procedures performed as needed. The rug is then washed and dried and is packaged for delivery to the client.
