Dr. Michael Cherkassky, MD, with Dallas Weight Loss, has recently announced the opening of a second office location. Dr. Cherkassky reports that their new location is now offering extended hours during the week and on Saturdays, to be able to meet the scheduling needs of their customers.

The Dallas medical weight loss clinic is on a mission to provide the most affordable and effective strategies for weight loss to their patients. Dr. Cherkassky states, "We believe that everyone should be happy with their bodies, and this is why we have created a reasonably priced weight loss program that is paid monthly. This helps our patients to better afford their weight loss strategies and finally get to lose those pounds that they want to get rid of."

Dr. Cherkassky states that their program has been very successful for long term weight loss and weight maintenance. He says that those who are interested can find many real reviews from patients who have tried and been successful with the system.

In addition to announcing their new location and hours, the doctor also states that they are offering a weight loss new patient discount. New patients who schedule an appointment will receive a $50 discount on their first visit.

"Our goal is to help you to be happy in your skin," says Dr. Cherkassky. "We feel that offering this discount to new patients will help to motivate them to visit and to see real results in their weight loss efforts."

Dr. Cherkassky has more than 35 years of experience in treating obesity and is a board certified physician. He states that the opening of a second Dallas weight loss clinic location will help to treat a larger number of patients and ensure that those who really want to see results have a location close to them for treatment. Typical weight loss programs at the clinic include medications to limit food cravings as well as a nutritional meal plan, vitamin B12 injections to burn fat and raise metabolism, and follow ups with the physician to ensure that the program is working as it should. The clinic urges those who are struggling with weight loss to contact them to schedule an initial consultation at any of their two locations.
