February 07, 2017 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

The manufacturers of food themed puzzle game, Super burger, have released a new edition of the game that is free of bugs. The launch comes days after the company announced they had hit the 12,000 downloads target they had aimed for January 2017.

?Anyone who loves super burger, like we look do, should check out the latest edition on Google Play store. We have eliminated all the bugs that previously made it challenging to run the game properly. And better yet, the new version has a new food type, but we are keeping this as a secret for fans to download and find out on their own,? Jose Jal said.

Super burger is a food themed game developed by Android based game manufacturer, Game Hero. This game mixes the elements found in popular match 3 games to offer a never seen before experience among games. The latest version of super burger particularly makes puzzling with different food types seem effortless and fun. According to Jose Jal, Super burger contains about five different types of popular foods. Among the food types include burgers, French fries, doughnuts, popcorns and hot dogs. What makes the game outstanding however is the fact players form puzzles with food types they love instead of simple bricks or anything else.

While the new edition of Super burger is likely to drive its popularity drastically, the game is already popular on Google play. Last week, Smith announced that they had reached their 12,000 downloads target, after being launched a few months earlier. In terms of quality, Super burger averages a star rating of 4.4, with 486 customers rating the game with 5 stars. And despite the bugs earlier reported, most of the game's customers had only positive remarks about it. Judy Parsons for instance, gave the game a 5 star rating and said the following.

"I really love this game. It requires strategic thinking. I also love the fact that it is simple and yet entertaining." Most of its other reviewers praised the game for its use of their favorite food types, while others simply said they would be recommending the game to all their friends.

Having eliminated minor bugs, the game's manufacturers hope to drive its download rate to 100,000+ come the end of 2017. According to Jose Jal, surpassing the 100,000 download mark might come even nearer if Super burger's popularity continue to grow at its current. He also has faith in the fact their parent company, Game Hero, has succeeded before with similar or different games.

"Our current target is to hit 100,000 downloads come the end of 2017. At Game Hero we have actually done it before with soccer games and other match 3 games. We hope it also happens with super burger. We are positive about this, especially because the game is growing at a far much faster rate than other games we have developed before," continued Jal.
