Ellen Watts, based in the United Kingdom and author of ?Cosmic Ordering Made Easier? will explain how Cosmic Ordering and consciously using the Law of Attraction can be the secret success ingredient when it comes to finding and keeping true love when she joins Eram Saeed, founder and owner of the global telesummit ?Heartache to Joy? in a special Valentine?s Day centered Love Summit.

In the live interview on Monday, Feb. 20, Watts will be sharing her top tips and demonstrating how anyone can attract their perfect partner, take their existing relationship to the next level and even attract a marriage proposal.

?Cosmic Ordering is the art and practice of asking the Universe for what you want and it arrives. It can be used for anything, but it?s especially effective for relationships,? said Watts.

?I'm delighted to have been invited by Eram to speak on the summit and very excited about sharing what I've learned through 30 plus years of successful Cosmic Ordering with her listeners around the globe. I know what I'll be covering will help thousands of people attract the love of their life whether they are currently in a relationship or not," she said.

Watts already has plenty of success stories in the United Kingdom to share, from perfect partners to wedding bells and even new babies. She attributes her own happy marriage to Cosmic Ordering and will be celebrating her 30th wedding anniversary this year.

The Love Summit will run for three weeks centering around Valentine's Day.

Each day, a different specialist healer or relationship expert will be interviewed by Saeed, with the focus on finding, starting, improving or mending relationships.

In addition, each speaker will be offering special gifts and heavily discounted programs to help listeners who have more in-depth needs.

"I'll be looking to see if my interview leads to a surge in marriage proposals," she said with a smile.
