SEOtack is a company that has been practicing SEO since 2009, making it one of the oldest and most established companies of its kind. They are proud to announce that they have recently launched an integrated module, which makes SEO more affordable. More details are available on the SEO Tick website at <http://www.seotack.com>.

Amtush from SEO Tick says: "Our new system offers a unique fusion of modern SEO techniques, blended with old school SEO methods. SEO is about both quality and diversity, and this is precisely what our new system offers. Perhaps most important, however, is the fact that we offer this in a way that is more affordable than ever before."

The new service is called "SEO Divine" and it is not just about link building. Rather, it includes numerous modules that range from ranking to authority building. The system has taken SEO Tick many months to set up, during which time they have successfully tested each individual element. The result is a front system that relies on modern SEO techniques, but is backed up by old school techniques that continue to be relevant today.

Specifically, the company focuses on its IFTTT concept. Amtush adds: "In simple terms, IFTTT helps you to increase your branding and ranking on autopilot. The setup is a network of social media, and it is not the usual blog network that is commonly used. It allows for the process of syndication to be fully automated, pushing up your authority, ranking, and power, and providing you with high quality backlinks automatically. Because the system is automated, the price is incredibly low, giving you a far greater return on investment."

IFTTT is a completely unique and new concept, and one that is totally different from traditional link building practices. With traditional strategies, clients would have to pay for each link. IFTTT, by contrast, works on 'set and forget', with an auto update formula. This means that once it is done, the backlinks will stay in place forever. Naturally, SEO Tick guarantees that the links are all of superior quality, so that their clients benefit from them as much as possible.
