Oakland FL: Stratus Roofing, Arthur Knapp and Scott Kramer are pleased to announce that the roofing company Orlando FL professional team offers commercial, as well as residential roofing and is available for 24-hour emergency services. The team consists of individuals with more than forty years of roofing experience, but it is their commitment to their customers which sets them apart from their competitors in the industry. Stratus Construction and Roofing is the combination of three real estate, development and construction families who combined their individual successes and strengths in the late 90s to become the Stratus team.

According to a company representative, "Our journey together has included all aspects of construction, development, management, and ownership. We have numerous awards in each of these areas, but it is this combined experience that makes us a roofing company with a difference. We understand all phases of ownership: single family residential, multi-family, and commercial."

The company principals have learned through experience the importance of customer service, budgets, follow-through and time management, in addition to finding the best roofing solutions. These are the necessary elements for a successful company. Only people who share the principles of customer service and attention to details are hired to join the team.

All types of roofing projects are available. There are experts in commercial, residential, flat, shingle, tile and metal to bring unbiased solutions to the roofing projects which customers need. The firm has maintained the highest industry certifications in each type of roofing, in order to provide both in-house and manufacturers' warranties on all services. High ratings on consumer review sites such as Angies List attest to experience and commitment.

A fleet of service teams are on call 24 hours a day, 365 days a year. The teams can be mobilized quickly in order to respond to emergency situations and limit the further damage from water, wind or roof deterioration.
