Green Theory Distributors offer a catalog of green-focused products for decorative and food sources. For people who want to grow flowers, herbs or food crops, the planters are high-quality and attractive products.

Port Coquitlam BC: Green Theory Distributors are pleased to announce that their online catalog is available for customers looking for a way to grow plants or crops when the place of residence is a condo or an apartment with little or no outdoor space. Container gardening has never been so simple and so attractive. Commercial planters are available in range of colors and materials. They are sold in many shapes and sizes.

Organic planters help to protect the earth in two ways. The planters are made of materials which is long-lived and do not require chemicals or other products to be effective. Materials such as aluminium, fiberglass and corten are both functional and aesthetically pleasing. The planters can be placed on a patio or a balcony and do not have to be replaced frequently as can be the case with other types of planters.

The planters are available in a wide range of shapes. Some of the most popular are cube planters, tube planters, flared and square planters. With the many materials and sizes of containers which are available, business owners are certain to find the right size and design to suit the green needs of the household. The styles are sleek and smooth. The designs can be placed indoors or outdoors.

A spokesperson for the company explained, "Whether you are looking to introduce additional color to interior or exterior of your home, finding the right planters can go a long way in making your dreams come true. However, finding the right combination of containers can be tricky when faced with a sea of choices. That is a challenge every homeowner (or office owner) faces. To make things a little better for you, we have looked at different types of planters in the marketplace. You can find the perfect match for your landscaping or basic decoration needs.
