

CookArt Releases Revolutionary Fun Reuseable Cupcake Cups With 56%-Off Discount

June 11, 2015

June 11, 2015 -

CookArt, operating from Federal Heights, CO, has recently released their 12 cupcake liner set, available in six different colors, on Amazon. As a new product, they are currently listing it with a discount of 56%, offering it for just $8.75. The company hopes that this will encourage more people to try out their cupcake liners and create edible works of art.

"Cupcakes are the food of the gods," says Isaac Salguero from CookArt. "Everybody loves them and we have long moved on from the standard cupcakes with a bit of glazing on them. Nowadays, they have to not just taste good, they have to look amazing as well. To create a beautiful end-result, our gorgeous CookArt silicone cupcake molds can help people to get started and be inspired."

The cupcake liners are made from full silicone. Silicone is becoming increasingly popular in the world of baking, as it allows for even cooking through and through. It is non-stick and can be used in heat of up to 450 degrees Fahrenheit. It is also resistant to cold, which means it can be placed in the freezer afterwards and still remain in perfect condition. Bakers can choose to remove the cupcake from their mold, or they can leave them in there for a fun and funky presentation.

People are also encouraged to think outside of the box with these molds. After all, they can be used for things other than cupcakes as well. They make great muffin cases, or mini-quiches or any other small food. The cupcake molds can also brighten up a child's lunchbox, containing a healthy snack.

The product has been available on Amazon for the past few weeks and it has been very well received. The CookArt customer review shows this quite clearly. "I just received these baking cupcake cups and I absolutely love them", says Lisa Lancaster. "I can hardly believe how easy my cupcakes slide right out of these. They are very bright and pretty in color and so easy to clean. I used warm water and mild dish detergent and they pretty wipe clean. They come 12 in a set with 6 different colors. I received mine to test and give an honest review. I think these are one of the best products I have ever tried for baking and would definitely recommend."

The cupcake molds have been fully FDA approved. They are also BPA free, which means they are eco friendly too. Hence, people can choose to make vegetarian or even vegan cakes in these molds and still not break their personal dietary rules. Finally, the cupcake molds come with a full one year unconditional warranty. This means that people can buy it risk free.

###

For more information about CookArt , contact the company here: CookArt Isaac Salguero 3034001682 isaac@netdirectsales.com 9360 Federal Blvd Federal Heights, CO 80260

CookArt

Cook Art is passionate about bringing High Quality, High Value products to market that will make cooking, grilling, or baking easier and more enjoyable.

Website: <http://cookartlove.com>

Email: isaac@netdirectsales.com

Phone: 3034001682

