

Staffing Center in Kent, WA Pushes Employment and Job Satisfaction to New Heights

March 03, 2017

March 03, 2017 -

Kent, Wash. ? The well-established staffing center in Kent, WA, Express Employment Professionals, continues to establish their campaign bent on improving job love and increasing the employment rate. The staffing company was founded in the 1980?s and has since acquired a reputation that covers the globe. With a business model that aims to improve the lives of its clients and prospects, Express Employment Professionals remains one of the top companies to actively engage with their customers to ensure all employment needs are met.

"Our number one focus is and will remain the well-being of those that need us," Express Kent Operations Manager Kelly Rosso said. "Whether it is an employer or an employee, we will always keep customer satisfaction at the heart of what we do."

The month of February brings with it a feeling of warmth and a time to make connections. Express Employment Professionals harbors these same feelings and makes it an active mission to connect the struggling unemployed with potential jobs. Such powerful reach is what has garnered such a positive reputation for the employment agency. This is because Express Employment Professionals is able to employ people locally but with all of the connections of a national corporation.

The job center in Kent, WA, continues to push themselves and the services they offer. Express Employment Professionals offers solutions to temporary staffing issues, to part-time or full-time employment. The employment agency sets the bar higher and higher in an effort to be constantly active in the services they offer and in the lives of those they affect.

"One of the reasons I love working at Express is because of the people I get to help," Rosso said. "The decisions we make and the help we provide have a lasting positive impact."
