

Mimi Fontaine Says Latest Eye Cream Provides UV Protection

June 16, 2015

June 16, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

California-based cosmetic products developer, Mimi Fontaine, has announced that their latest Eye Cream provides UV protection as well as helps with anti-aging effects under the eyes. The company believes that due to years of experience in the cosmetics industry in Hollywood, and top quality ingredients and research, this product will leave users coming back for more. Currently, the cream is available through Amazon.com for $29.95, and may help to reduce wrinkles, puffiness, under eye circles, and bags.

The product contains no parabens and has never been tested on animals. Customers who visit the company's Amazon sales portal will find several 5-star reviews vouching for the product's success. Mimi Fontaine reports that much of this success is due to the inclusion of vitamins and other natural ingredients such as hydrolyzed collagen, elastin, licorice root extract, vitamin E, and retinyl. Together, these work to plump skin, increase stretching and elasticity of skin, reduce inflammation and eczema, and defend against free radicals and ultraviolet radiation. Mimi Fontaine has said the following in regards to the cream and how the ingredients work to improve the skin around the eyes:

"When skin ages, either through the normal process or with too much exposure to environmental elements, it loses flexibility and cannot resume its shape after stretching or contracting, as it does when an individual smiles or frowns. Crowsfeet at the outer corners of the eyes are a common result of the loss of suppleness in the delicate skin around the eyes. The hydrolyzed elastin in this product passes through the surface of the skin and helps to enhance its elasticity."

Mimi Fontaine believes so much in this line of eye cream that she invites those who are interested in further information to click here to learn more. The company has made it very clear that Mimi is incredibly passionate about helping men and women improve their skin without spending a fortune or turning to lesser products to do so. The Amazon sales portal for the cream reports:

"Mimi Fontaine's signature line of anti aging eye cream, based on over 20 years of experience in the Hollywood beauty industry. Her best proprietary formulation makes sure this anti aging eye cream is something your friends will rave about when they see the results on your face. Mimi herself signs off on every last bottle that comes down the production line."

Although all sales are currently provided through Amazon.com, the company promotes interaction and learning through their social media platforms such as their Facebook account, located at <https://www.facebook.com/MimiFontaineProducts>. Here, new users can read testimonials and comments from past customers, see information on products and promotions, and also read a variety of publications that are posted to the page regarding skin care and healthy living.

Mimi Fontaine's eye cream website, located at <http://best-under-eye-cream.com/> also supplies features and benefits of the cream, a breakdown of each ingredient and how it works to strengthen and renew the skin around and under the eyes, and an area for consumers to contact the company with questions or concerns.
