Pensacola, Fla. - GG's Spa, a recognized natural day spa in Pensacola, FL, has remained a leader in the personal beauty industry. Recently the company found it necessary to sponsor ATgIOW, a charity, festival-style event that aims to raise awareness towards suicide prevention.

"We found it very honorable for the boys to raise awareness towards suicide," the owner of GG's Spa said. "We pride ourselves on our hospitality and love for people, so it only makes sense to us that we join their cause."

The charity even focused on educating the public on suicide prevention by making the community more aware of the topic. Suicide is often a difficult subject to bring up so the organization's efforts to publicize it were enlightening. The awareness organization, SAVE, continually tries to reduce the stigma associated with suicide and acts as a resource for those touched or devastated by suicide. ATgIOW also acts as a provider of business to its sponsors.

"It was important for us to sponsor an event with similar values. We think everything SAVE is doing to bring awareness and understanding to suicide is wonderful," the owner of GG's Spa said.

The beauty spa in Pensacola, FL, believes that beauty and wellness are intricately linked. GG's hopes that by sponsoring SAVE, people will change how they view their own well-being. With customer care and hospitality being the cornerstone of the spa's business model, it is no surprise that they found it necessary to sponsor the charity event.
