Sanford, FL company Monika's Marketplace has taken the world by storm with their draft stopper. They are proud to announce that they have now released the product in two new designs: one is red rose, and the other has pink and brown spots. Their standard brown and burgundy model also continues to be available. Customers have pointed out that with these new designs for the draft stopper decorative requirements for the room can also be complied with.

"Our under-door draft stopper has long been very popular, recently being listed as a best selling product with over 200 positive reviews," says founder and owner of the company, Monika herself. "The only 'complaint' for some people was that the color combination of brown and burgundy was too bland. Hence, we have now released it in the two new designs, and we're hopeful to be able to add other designs to the collection soon. So watch this space."

The under-door draft stopper hand made in the USA and is made with heavy duty materials. Thanks to the filling of rock and poly-fiber, it weighs 1.4 lbs so it will always stay securely in place. The stopper was designed to fit most standard doors, and particularly those that are flush to the ground. One particular element of interest is that the stopper helps to make properties more energy efficient.

Monika adds: "People want to conserve energy to keep their bills low, and also to help protect the planet by behaving in a more sustainable way and by lowering their carbon footprint. Our under-door draft stopper can help them to achieve that, by preventing cold air from coming in during the colder months, and hot air from coming in when you have the air conditioner on."

Interestingly, some people are also using it in order to protect their rooms from light coming in. "My husband works shift work and we needed something to go on the bottom of our bedroom door to block out light coming in so he could sleep. We decided to use something like this because it is easily moved on and off the floor and can be put on either side of the door...," says one Amazon customer.

The decorative draft stopper comes with a storage bag so it can be protected from outside elements when it is not in use. These draft stopper decorative are available on Amazon.com.
