March 20, 2017 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Elysium WoW offers gold and power leveling services for the Nostalrius Legacy Vanilla WoW server. The World of Warcraft Private Server has been renamed and reinvented as Elysium WoW.

Elysium WoW is pleased to announce that it has undergone a change of name for the project. Some of the website pieces have been renamed in order to suit the new names of the game servers. The classic Legacy World of Warfare Server called Nostalrius which existed until 10th of April resumed on 17th of December 2016, under the name change, due to developer team disagreement. At the same time, the name of the project was changed to Elysium Project.

The Elysium Gold website previously provided gold and power leveling (gaming) services for the Nostalrius Legacy Vanilla World of Warfare Server. The main service is to provide gold (virtual game currency) and game accounts to players, but the private server in general is quite popular with its player base. The website is a professional gold gaming piece seller and is focused on providing fast and reliable service.

According to the spokesperson for the website, "We strive to deliver as quickly as possible, up to a couple of hours, depending on our availability. Once the purchase is complete, we contact the buyer on their e-mail address to appoint a delivery transfer with you. The details of the trade cannot be disclosed publicly, due to the nature of the trade. The prices which are set reflect the demand of the buyers and the amount of stock available."

The Game Masters of Nostalrius do not like gold buying and selling transactions, but the website owners have developed strict and secure transfer methods in order that participants in the transaction can feel safe. The rules are followed and they do not break the game. The methods for farming and delivery are done by playing the game as it was intended. No details are shared outside of the transaction, with absolutely no exceptions to the strict and secure delivery process.
