Stafford TX: O&M Construction Services LLC and Omar Alghali are pleased to announce the launch of their Houston-based construction business. The company proudly serves Houston and the surrounding areas, providing for the roofing and remodeling needs of the customers. The professional team also provides energy solutions for the homes of customers. The service features energy efficient replacement windows, doors, insulation, siding, ventilation and solar solutions. O&M strives to develop meaningful customer relationships which go beyond the initial services which are provided.

According to Omar Alghali of O&M Construction Services LLC, speaking to an interviewer, "We want to earn our customer's trust. By earning that trust they will most likely refer us to their family and friends and perhaps return as repeat customers. We also believe in doing the right thing at all times. I see the products and services we provide are not just a means of making a pretty penny, but to fulfill a need for our clients. In other words if our customers are happy, then that makes us happy.?

O&M holds certification from Owens Corning, Pabco, Atlas and Certainteed. The company is also bonded and insured. The team specializes in insurance storm damage loss claims, such as damage from wind, water, floods and hail. Free roof inspections are available to identify the level of potential damages. When there is storm-related damage, the company pros will assist clients to file the necessary claims with insurance carriers.

The family-owned business professionals provide their expertise to ensure that any losses are properly addressed. The best quality roofing materials on the market are utilized and the work is done by certified professionals. In addition to insurance storm claims, the team does kitchen and bath remodeling, drywall, painting, flooring, gutters, replacement windows, glass repair, solar screens and insulation. They also specialize in solar energy and roof restorations throughout the greater Houston area.
