Amazon Product Keyword Research Tool By Keyword Inspector Has Gathered 25 Million Keywords And Growing

June 13, 2015

June 13, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Keyword Inspector, operating from Owatonna, MN is proud to announce that their keyword research tool has successfully gathered 25 million keywords and their list is growing every day. Keyword Inspector is said to be one of the best keyword tools on the market, as no other keyword tool matches their feature list. Furthermore, the company currently holds over 110 million different Amazon products in their database, which helps them to automate their keyword research for the best possible results. They hope to be able to help more Amazon sellers become successful.

"We make Amazon keyword research super easy simply by combining our keyword and product data into a simple reverse Amazon Standard Identification Number (ASIN) search", says James Harbal from Keyword Inspector. "When a seller is planning on selling a retail or wholesale arbitrage or private label product, all they need to do is find the applicable ASIN for the most popular similar Amazon product and do a reverse ASIN search. Seconds later, they are provided with all relevant keywords that they can use in their own product description."

The Amazon product keyword research tool allows all the keywords to be sorted, which means that the best converting keywords are shown at the top of the list. The keywords that are at the top should be used in the Amazon product listing, using them in the title, bullet points, descriptions and search term fields. This ensures that all the rules for Amazon SEO are being met and the product will immediately become more visible.

"You wouldn't believe the keywords you can find using our tool, ones that you might have found, but would have taken days of manual labor research, which Keyword Inspector does automatically in seconds", adds James Harbal. "And they are ALL Amazon Buyer Searches."

The tool truly is very powerful. Furthermore, it is the only one of its kind as no other company currently offers a truly automated keyword Amazon product listing optimization service. By using the search, any necessary keywords to make a successful listing are revealed. Furthermore, they can be used on the Amazon Sponsored Ads network, which is their own internal PPC network. This is because the search terms are all Amazon-approved.

To date, the tool has been used by thousands of sellers on Amazon, who have all used it to optimize their product listings. These products are grossing millions of dollars a month. The return on investment is tremendous, as the time saved in using the tool can run into the hundreds of hours. Furthermore, there is no longer a need to hire someone to do the work manually, which is a great cost and time saving exercise.
