June 15, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Hawthorne, CA based company, Lea Louise, has announced that they recently helped a senior experiencing severe foot problems through the use of what they report to be a superior foot care product. The product used to cure the customer's ailments came from the company's Amazon foot peel mask, which can be viewed and purchased through their Amazon.com sales channel. The customer explained through a review on the website:

"Being 85 my feet over the years had developed very thick calluses on my sole but not as bad on the heels. I have used one treatment and am very delighted with the result. I have ordered a second one to get a more complete job on the soles."

The company has expressed how very passionate they are in helping their customers, and this review is celebrated by Lea Louise as a success in terms of customer satisfaction and the superior quality of the foot peel mask. The customer went on to explain in the review that she had been seeing special doctors for her condition for over twenty years with no result, and that this treatment was the first to give her some relief.

The Amazon foot peel mask is said to deliver natural botanical extracts to the feet, and peel off dead skin and thick foot calluses with no harmful chemical additives. Benefits of the treatment include the reduction of fine lines and wrinkles, as well as foot odor. The company has suggested that competitor companies usually offer a scraper tool to rub this skin off, but that this can cause scarring, peeling, and pain. The Lea Louise mask contains two pairs of masks for the feet, which work well for men or women with feet in sizes 6 to 9 on the United States sizing chart. They describe it as follows:

"The foot booties has a fantastic wide sealed edge, surpassing conventional foot masks you may have come across. The taller section is designed to allow the foot booties to stay on while exfoliating the top section of your foot. The wide seal ensures it won't split/break easily if you ever need to walk; this design also prevents booties from slipping off and liquid spilling over your furniture."

Currently, the company is selling the product for $27.00 and are offering a bonus Pedicurist Nail Buffer, which can be used on toenails and fingernails to complete the transformation from tired dry feet to baby soft cared for feet. Lea Louise also supplies customers with a free Ebook guide, which offers 4 easy steps that shoppers can use to make their feet more supple and young looking. The book is available for download following a purchase of the foot mask.

Proud of their product and the happiness it has brought customers like the one mentioned above, Lea Louise gives all buyers a promise for 100% customer satisfaction. If those who use the product aren't impressed and happy with the way that it works, they have stated that they will provide full refunds with no trouble to all who require them. They encourage those who are interested in trying the product to buy now while products are in high supply, and to leave feedback following their first use.
