People with rheumatoid arthritis, who try to cook their own meals, often require adjustments to their kitchens and utensils, as well as easy to maneuver gadgets, in order to minimize pain. The 5-blade herb scissors, which is made by Jenaluca, has been suggested to be easy to manage by people with rheumatoid arthritis.

Sonja S is one of several shoppers who have made this suggestion. ?I have Rheumatoid Arthritis and sometimes a lot of cutting and chopping makes my hands and especially my fingers cramp so much that I can't finish food preparation,? she noted in her verified Amazon review about the product. ?This may be the best tool I've ever bought because I like to cook and this, with a couple of other tools, sure makes prep fast and easy. I highly recommend this product,? she added.

Made from heavy duty stainless steel, the multipurpose kitchen shear has sharp blades that allow for the quick and easy preparation of herbs that are needed for salads, soups, and other dishes. In addition to being easier on the joints of the hands, it also requires less effort to operate than a standard kitchen knife. It requires only two snips to prepare the same amount of herbs as making 10 knife chops and can also be used on vegetables. The precise cuts of the herb scissors also allow home cooks to achieve professional-chef results.

The culinary gadget also comes with plastic handles that are lined with anti-abrasive TPR, which provides a soft and comfortable grip for the fingers. Another benefit for users is the fact that the scissors cleans up easily. It comes with a protective cover for the blades, which also has a brush end to remove debris from the blades, and the product can be easily cleaned with clean water or placed in the dishwasher.

Sufferers of rheumatoid arthritis, who are looking for a kitchen gadget to make it easier and more comfortable to prepare meals, may consider the herb scissors from Jenaluca. The product is currently available on Amazon.com and comes with an unconditional lifetime guarantee.
