Spalon Tech, a company with legacy in Florida, is known for fighting women's most ferocious enemy, cellulite, for the past two decades. The founder, Andrea Welch, says that "We are always in search of the absolute best products and services that we could offer our clients. On this wonderful journey, we have been poked, prodded, manipulated, squeezed, electrified, pinched and sand blasted. As well as have been covered in every product known to man that claimed to make us feel better, look younger and be smaller."

Recently, the company has released the Spalon Tech Cellulite Cream with Caffeine and Seaweed, a cream that helps shape women's body using its active ingredients. One of the ingredients, organic aloe, adds an extra-moisture effect to the user's skin leaving it non-greasy after its application.

The company's representatives say that the cellulite cream is made with a combination between two main ingredients: the caffeine and the seaweed. Caffeine is known for the exfoliating effects it has on skin; getting rid of dead cells and stimulating the blood circulation, which leads to a silky smooth skin. Seaweed is also used as a natural remedy in skin care, due to its richness in vitamins and minerals. In some cases, it can even be applied directly onto the skin as an exfoliating solution.

This revolutionary formula stimulates the blood circulation, reducing the swelling and the unaesthetic look of the skin. As a result, it makes it smoother and more hydrated. The great amount of anti-oxidants it contains along with the algae extract and more than 64 vitamins to penetrate deep into the skin and kill the fat cells located in the problem areas.

On the other side, the company's spokesperson states that the cream comes in a very practical packaging, a pump bottle, which will provide the exact quantity of cream without having to worry about any unnecessary waste. This packaging is also highly recommended from a hygienic point of view. By using it, there is no direct interaction with the rest of the product, keeping away possible germs and bacteria that might arise.

Spalon Tech's best cellulite cream is now available for online purchase on Amazon.com. Due to its increasing popularity among women's preferences, it can be bought for a limited period of time. "I've been using this cream for about two months now and all I can say is that this is the first time when I am actually not only seeing, but also feeling the effects of an anti-cellulite cream. Besides the fact that my skin is so much smoother, my thighs are considerably thinner and I managed to go down a pants size with adding a little exercise," says one of the many happy female customers.
