Pasadena-based Best Pet Vacuum offers the ultimate guide and reviews for the top options for pet hair in 2017. Individuals and families who love their pets, don't love the pet hair they leave on every surface in the house.

Pasadena CA: Best Pet Vacuum and Robert Burns are pleased to announce that they have released a comprehensive buyers' guide and reviews of the top pet vacuums in various categories. For households with a furry pet, there is always going to be pet hair sticking to carpets, furniture and other soft surfaces. Hard surfaces can also have a build-up of hair, in corners and under furniture. The struggle to find equipment which is able to capture the hair on both types of surface is real. The posted article explains the characteristics to consider, as well as the best models in multiple categories.

The post considers ten different categories of pet hair equipment and provides the three top models in each of the categories. These categories are helpful to households with various preferences. The models which appear in the reviews were personally tested and selected by the authors of the post.

The ultimate buyers guide which is presented lists the most important things to consider before buying a household vacuum designed to capture pet hair. Some of the characteristics to consider include the type of surface which will be cleaned; the size of the rooms to be cleaned; and whether the equipment is robotic or manual. Additional features to be considered are accessories, weight, cords or cordless, the amount of suction available, filtration, whether a bag is included, and the price.

The categories which are included in the reviews are robots, upright vacuums, cordless, handheld, canister, stick vacuums and bagless vacuums. In addition to the above categories, there are top vacuums sorted by the major manufacturers. These include Bissell, Shark, Dyson and Hoover. For each of the individual models reviewed, there are the best and worst features listed, as well as a quick reference rating based on one to five stars. The guide will help prospective customers to reduce the necessity to individually do the time-consuming research.
