March 30, 2017 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Hughes Automotive Performance & Repair offers reliable service which specializes in Jeep service and repair. The company assures customers in the Florence area of their experience and skills.

Florence SC: Hughes Automotive Performance & Repair is pleased to announce that they have been working in the Florence area in order to provide Jeep owners with specialized care and repairs. Jeep owners are encouraged to bring their prized vehicles by the shop for a free consultation. Although the company specializes in Jeeps, other models and brands are included in the skills and experience which is available. The service area includes vehicle owners from Florence and the surrounding region.

According to a representative of the auto repair Florence SC facility, "When you are searching for a trusted auto repair and performance shop in Florence, SC, you may want to make your first and last stop at Hughes Automotive Performance & Repair. We understand how important your car or truck is to you, so our goal is to help you make sure it is performing at its peak. You can count on us to use high-quality products and provide friendly, honest service."

The company provides several types of service, all with professionalism and experience. These include brake repairs, oil changes, battery replacements and general auto repairs. These are the types of care and repair services which can be troublesome if they are not taken care of promptly. Brake repairs are an example. Faulty brakes are both a safety hazard and a requirement of legal statutes. The dead battery leaving the vehicle by the side of the road is something which can be prevented. Hughes can prevent issues from arising through its regular maintenance services.

There are several reasons why Hughes should be the garage of choice. These include the years of experience and positive reputation. Employees are subjected to background checks and drug testing. They use high quality products combined with honest service. The facility and staff are fully licensed and insured, with a positive rating from the Better Business Bureau.
