Windermere-based Strong Tower Ventures offers rehab services for real estate investment. The team also purchases cash flow properties in Southern California.

Windermere FL: Strong Tower Ventures and Jonathon Federwisch are pleased to announce the launch of their real estate investing company. The founders Jon and Johanna Federwisch were middle school teachers before deciding a career change was in order. They founded Strong Tower Ventures as a real estate investing company which rehabs houses. The firm also purchases cash flow properties in Southern California. The company is associated with the Sell My House Fast Orlando team.

The informative website offers a number of helpful articles and document explanations which are helpful for those considering the purchase or sale of a home. Housing Documents includes details on the truth about loan modification approvals, a loan modification article and information about homeowner scams. The latter article lists and gives a brief description of a number of scams which can cause losses to the victim.

Another category of information which is available on the new website is CDAT documents. A Certified Default Advocacy Training description is offered online. The course helps to guide clients through laws which may apply to foreclosure actions. There are three goals listed, beginning with stopping the foreclosure sale date. Goal #2 is to ensure that there is no further recourse against the homeowner by Senior or Junior lien holders. Finally, the STV assists clients to assist in finding a new rental in the area.

Rehabbing houses is another significant part of the firm's activities. They find houses which need improvement in order to make them more attractive and functional for buyers. The houses are purchased at a price which makes it possible to bring them up to marketable standards and are resold for a profit. The process is called "flipping". The website has posted videos about the first flip completed by Strong Tower Ventures. Future posts will show the inventory of houses available to buyers.
